The Art + Science of Being Indispensable – As air is indispensable to life, so is escrow to real estate transactions. Escrow providers whose customers recognize their indispensability are insulated from market drama and bad client behavior.

Real estate broker, attorney, author and syndicated columnist Tara-Nicholle Nelson – a raving fan of her own favorite escrow providers – will take you on an inspirational deep dive into both the warm, fuzzy and hard-core, actionable ingredients escrow companies can stir up to render themselves absolutely necessary, and make sure your clients know it.

Paradoxically blending her smart humor with game-changing mindset shifts and action items EIC Members can take to max out their own indispensability factor, Tara will enlighten, inspire and entertain during this keynote. You will want to take notes!

10:45 – 11:45 am ARTHUR E. DAVIS III, ESQ. – AEA GENERAL COUNSEL / EXECUTIVE ADMINISTRATOR – It is a privilege to have Mr. Davis the long-time General Counsel join the Spring Conference. With the change in National Administration and therefore focus, Art will try to demystify the various pending regulatory and legislation initiatives and what it may mean for the escrow/settlement industry.

12:00 – 1:15 pm “LEGISLATOR OF THE YEAR” – ASSEMBLYWOMAN CATHLEEN GALGIANI

Assemblywoman Galgiani undertook an effort to enact AB 957 – Buyer’s Choice Act against overwhelming odds and monumental opposition. The Institute will bestow our first ever “Legislator of the Year” in recognition of Ms. Galgiani’s tireless efforts. Cathleen will share her experiences, as well as update us on the effort to improve upon AB 957 with the introduction this year of clean-up legislation.
